For 20 years Vinol has been sold in your City and hundreds of your neighbors have been restored to health by it. If you have not taken it yourself you must know someone who has—and who knows from experience that money cannot buy a better remedy for all run-down and debilitated conditions—to restore strength after sickness—to make delicate children strong and robust—and bolster up the strength of old people.

Remember what we said in the heading of this notice—

Choice Cuts —and Others

A few weeks ago a newspaper man visited one of the wholesale markets of Swift & Company. He wanted to see a retailer buy a loin of beef and then watch the retailer sell the porterhouse and sirloin steaks from it over his counter. He thought this would make a good story.

The head of the market took the reporter into the "cooler" where he showed him a high class side of beef. With a wooden skewer he marked off the loin and said, "That would cost a retailer just 40 cents a pound, but it's only 8 per cent of the weight of the whole side."

"This piece, (and he marked off about one-fourth of the carcass) is the chuck and I'll sell it at wholesale for 7 cents a pound. Please remember, this is one of our best sides of beef. We also have beef which sells for half as much."

This wide variation in the price of various cuts from the same side of beef is caused largely by demand for the tender cuts. The others are, of course, just as wholesome.

It seems as though more people than ever are demanding choicer cuts, and their demand sets the price. If few people ask for the forequarter cuts, the price of forequarters will automatically drop to a figure low enough to induce people to buy because of cheapness.

Even though certain cuts sell for relatively high prices, other cuts, due to lack of demand, sell so low that our profit from all sources over a period of five years averaged only a fraction of a cent a pound.

It is competition between consumers for the choicer cuts that keeps prices for those cuts relatively high; an equalizing demand for all parts of the carcass would benefit producer, packer, retailer and consumer.

Our average wholesale selling price of all products has fallen about 40 per cent since September 1920.

the absolute necessity for some understanding regarding the cause of war.

Mr. Coolidge said he felt certain the conference would achieve the high purposes for which it was created.

"America," the vice president said, "is proposing this conference with the most unselfish of motives. We have emerged from the great war less impaired than any other nation. We have suffered at yet very little from any international economic reaction. We can meet the test of competitive armaments with less strain than most nations. There is small doubt that we might prosper at the expense of others."

"America has always been an apostle of peace and unselfishness. It proposes to hold to that course now. It seeks for a better understanding among nations, not merely for its own advantage but for a great desire to serve. The mighty power that has come, the great advantage that is ours, will be unworthily held unless it is used for the cause of humanity."

"There will be no diminution of nationalities, no limitation of independence. Imposed upon ourselves or upon others. The nations will emerge from the conference clothed with sovereignty unimpaired and with freedom unimpaired. But if the hope of our peoples is realized they will emerge with a new determination not to rely for their security upon the individual power of force, but to rely upon the universal power of righteousness."

VICE PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S VIEW OF ARMAMENT MEET

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—The altruism of America that moved it to call the conference to limit armament and the absolute need for economy on the part of the nations will work for the success of the Washington conference, Vice President Calvin Coolidge tonight told the members of the Philadelphia Forum.

"The great purpose of the present conference is not to establish a force which no nation will dare to destroy," Mr. Coolidge declared, "but to establish an understanding in which all nations will desire to co-operate. There lies the practical prospect of immediate benefit and the great expectation of world salvation. The only price exacted is a trifling diminution of the theoretical nation security. But even the lesser power of defense will be balanced by the lessened power of attack."

The aims of the conference are not new, Mr. Coolidge pointed out. The idea antedates modern civilization, he said. "But they all demonstrated that civilization hates war and has long cherished aspirations for perpetual peace," he went on. "They have for the most part turned upon political and military alliances which undertook, by combination, to increase the military power, rather than by agreement and independence to decrease it."

The utility of the past arrangements will lay the foundation for the success of the present conference, Mr. Coolidge asserted. For they have demonstrated
